Free Family Art Activity: Journey Stories Journal Sketchbooks

Journey Stories are tales of how, when, and why we move around. From short day trips to long moves leaving everything behind for a new life. Recording your journey story is important for you and your family. For this family art activity we will make a journal sketchbook to record your own journey story.

Workshop conducted by Education Curators from Utah Museum of Fine Arts in partnership with the Museum of Moab and the Grand County Library.

Preserving Family & Community History – A Three-Hour Adventure with Eileen Hallet Stone

More than glimpses of past events, oral history captures individual, family, community and world history in a personal way. Learn the ins and outs of conducting oral history interviews. What works, what doesn't, and why. Learn research processes, the technical aspects of recording interviews, and how to trust your instincts and become an effective listener to achieve the best results. Interested in starting an oral history project? This free workshop is a great place to begin. Bring a favorite photo or family item to help us delve into personal and community history.

Eileen is an award-winning writer and oral historian. Her latest book, Hidden History of Utah, is a compilation of her Salt Lake Tribune “Living History” columns and may be found in local bookstores and libraries. Thanks to Grand County Library for hosting.

Utah Museum of Fine Arts’ Traveling Museum Project: Journey Stories

What do you think of when you think of a journey? A favorite trip, moving to a new city, growing up, or maybe an object, something that reminds you of a memory from an important life event? The artwork featured in this one-case exhibit illuminates the vibrancy of our global cultural landscape through a common theme of journey stories.

Using objects from the Utah Museum of Fine Arts’ Education Collection, the Traveling Museum Project installs exhibitions in communities and schools throughout Utah with the aim of cultivating visual literacy, critical thinking, and curiosity.

Journey Stories is part of Museum on Main Street, a collaboration between the Smithsonian Institution and the Utah Humanities Council, touring in partnership with the Museum of Moab.
